

A FOURTH OF JULY SIZZLE

OF A PEACE RESOLUTION WITHOUT A TREATY.

Republican Exhibition of Smallness to Their Own Discredit and Wilson's Light Shines.

The Republican party have put an indelible stain of smallness on their history. They will not sign the Wilson treaty of peace but they will close the war with the nations with whom we have been at war without any signed treaty of peace and so open to the interpretation of the highest courts a condition without a parallel. They declare without signing that the war of the United States is at an end, expressly reserving all rights under the terms of armistice of Nov. 11, 1918, and all rights acquired by reason of its participation in the war and all rights which under the Treaty of Versailles have been stipulated for its benefit. In other words they back into the Treaty of Peace and League of Nations without a signature, leaving the doors wide open for a judicial determination of such monkey business. When anything valuable is wanted to be held and acquired they will say the treaty was as good as signed and when there is anything disadvantageous they will say they never signed. In other words again they accept all the wisdom and benefits of everything Wilson did and refuse to sign their names showing approval of Wilson.

The resolution agreed upon by the conferees of Senate and House knocked out the Knox Resolution and changed the Porter Resolution of the House and was presented for a Fourth of July celebration, forgetting that many things prepared for that day end not in a display but a sizzle.

Text of New Resolution.
The peace resolution as agreed upon by the majority conferees reads:

"Joint resolution terminating the state of war between the Imperial German Government and the United States of America and between the Imperial and Royal Austro-Hungarian Government and the United States of America.

"That the state of war declared to exist between the Imperial German Government and the United States of America by the joint resolution of Congress approved April 6, 1917, is hereby declared at an end.

"Section 2.—That in making this declaration, and as a part of it, there are expressly reserved to the United States of America and its nationals any and all rights, privileges, indemnities, reparations or advantages, together with the right to enforce the same, to which it or they have become entitled under the terms of the armistice signed Nov. 11, 1918, or any extensions or modifications thereof; or which were acquired by or are in the possession of the United States of America by reason of its participation in the war or to which its nationals have thereby become rightfully entitled; or which, under the Treaty of Versailles, have been stipulated for its or their benefit; or to which it is entitled as one of the principle allied and associated powers; or to which it is entitled by virtue of any act or acts, of Congress, or otherwise.

"Section 3.—That the state of war declared to exist between the Imperial and Royal Austro-Hungarian Government and the United States of America, by the joint resolution of Congress approved Dec. 7, 1917, is hereby declared at an end.

"Sec. 4.—That in making this declaration, and as a part of it, there are expressly reserved to the United States of America and its nationals any and all rights, privileges, indemnities, reparations or advantages, together with the right to enforce the same, to which it or they have become entitled under the terms of the armistice signed Nov. 3, 1918, or any extensions or modifications thereof; or which were acquired by or are in the possession of the United States of America by reason of its participation in the war or to which its nationals have thereby become rightfully entitled; or which, under the treaty of Saint Germain-En-Laye, or the treaty of Trianon, have been stipulated for its or their benefit, or to which it is entitled as one of the principal allied and associated powers; or to which it is entitled by virtue of any act or acts of Congress or otherwise.

"Section 5.—All property of the Imperial German Government or its successor or successors and of all German nationals which was on April 6, 1917, in or has since that date come into the possession or under control of, or has been the subject of a demand by the United States of America or of any of its officers, agents or employees, from any source or by any agency whatsoever, and all property of the Imperial and Royal Austro-Hungarian Government, or its successor or successors, and of all Austro-Hungarian nationals which was on Dec. 7, 1917, in or has since that date come into the possession or under control of, or has been the subject of a demand by its officers, agents or employees, from any source or by any agency whatsoever, shall be retained by the United States of America and no disposition thereof made except as shall have been heretofore or specifically hereafter shall be provided by law until such time as the Imperial German Government and the Imperial and Royal Austro-Hungarian Government, or their successor or successors, shall have respectively made suitable provision for the satisfaction of all claims against said Governments respectively, of all persons, whosoever domiciled, who owe permanent allegiance to the United States of America and who have suffered, through the acts of the Imperial German Government, or its agents, or the Imperial and Royal Austro-Hungarian Government, or its agents, since July 31, 1914, loss, damage or injury to their persons or property, directly or indirectly, whether through the ownership of shares of stock in German, Austro-Hungarian, American, or other corporations, or in consequence of hostilities, or of any operations of war or otherwise, and also shall have granted to persons owing permanent allegiance to the United States of America most-favored-nation treatment, whether the same be national or otherwise, in all matters affecting residence, business, profession, trade, navigation, commerce and industrial property rights and until the Imperial German Government and the Imperial and Royal Austro-Hungarian Government or their successor or successors shall have respectively confirmed to the United States of America all fines, forfeitures, penalties and seizures imposed or made by the United States of America during the war, whether in respect to the property of the Imperial German Government or German nationals or the Imperial and Royal Austro-Hungarian Government or Austro-Hungarian nationals, and shall have waived any and all pecuniary claims against the United States of America.

"Section 6.—Nothing herein contained shall be construed to repeal, modify or amend the provisions of the joint resolution 'declaring that certain acts of Congress, joint resolutions and proclamations shall be construed as if the war had ended and the present or existing emergency expired,' approved March 3, 1921, or the passport control provisions of an act entitled 'An act making appropriations for the diplomatic and consular service for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1922,' approved March 2, 1921, nor to be effective to terminate the military status of any person now in desertion from the military or naval service of the United States, nor to terminate the liability to prosecution and punishment, under the Selective Service law, approved May 18, 1917, of any person who failed to comply with the provisions of said act, or of acts amendatory thereof."

GETTYSBURG'S GOOD ROADS

Almost Due and Will be Coming These Summer Days.

Gettysburg and Adams county is beginning to see daylight and the end of all concrete road and street troubles. In a short time there will be four first class concrete roads entering Gettysburg and open to the travelers. The Chambersburg pike will be open next week. July 4th it is said, with the finest of driveways through to Caledonia Park. The road to Biglerville was finished last week and will be opened latter part of July. It is now traveled as far as the old Mummaburg road from this end, and over a half mile south from Biglerville. It will give a first class road to Bendersville. The Emmitsburg road, finished, has been tied up in part by the building of the Middle Creek bridge. There is one side wall of the bridge to be poured and the fill is being made at southern end and it should be a matter of a few weeks until the road is clear to Emmitsburg for travelers.

The State seems to be moving slow in building approaches to all bridges and there are short stretches at a number of bridges to be built, but it would take but a short time to make them after they are started.

There are four concrete mixers at work on the Harrisburg road between Stone Jug and York Springs and it is said they have a capacity of pouring a mile of concrete in six days' time. The bridges under construction at Conewago Creek and Bermudian Creek are progressing rapidly and it is expected may be finished in next two months. The only problem of the Harrisburg road is what will be done at Rock Creek bridge near Gettysburg. The bridge was injured recently and a new bridge will have to go at that point and it is likely a new structure may be rushed this year.

The Souder Construction Company has completed the short stretch of roadway from the Confederate avenue to the Peach Orchard and have moved all machinery to town. The digging has been completed from Baltimore street out Steinwehr avenue to the borough limits and the digger is now coming down Baltimore street and is almost on top of the hill as we go to press. The concrete is being poured southward from Winebrenner's run and the eastern half of the street for a square has been put down. Baltimore street may be completed with favorable weather by September.

PREVENT FOREST FIRES—IT PAYS.

CAN WARDENS GET GIGGERS

FOUR FISHERMEN CAUGHT BEFORE OPEN SEASON ARRIVED.

A Total Penalty of $100 Was Paid for the Illegal Fun of Giggling Contrary to Law.

Reports of giggling out of season along the Conewago coming to the ears of the game protectors of Adams and York counties led to the arrest of four young men late Saturday night and early Sunday morning.

W. C. Stevens and Leo Bushman, game protectors of York and Adams counties, respectively, and John E. Hess, Sr., deputy sheriff, after receiving reports of illegal giggling, patrolled the banks of the Conewago, and late Saturday night came upon Raymond Chronister, Henry Hamme and Jacob B. Grove, all of East Berlin or thereabouts, who were giggling at a point in Adams county, near the York boundary line. At the time of their arrest, the gigggers had already caught quite a number of bass, frogs, suckers, sunfish and other varieties of water inhabitants. They are charged with giggling before the open season, which opens July 1; giggling without a permit; giggling bass, which is unlawful at all times; having in their possession bass out of season; hunting frogs with artificial light; and catching frogs before the season, which opens July 2nd.

The scouting party also came upon another party early Sunday morning similarly engaged, but two of the three got away. Albert Kimmel, East Berlin R. D. 2, also escaped, but was tracked to his home where the fish were found in the cellar. He was immediately arrested on similar charges. It is expected that the other two will be apprehended.

As the result of having been caught in the act of spearing fish out of season, the men all appeared at a hearing at the office of P. C. Smith, Justice of the Peace, on Monday evening and pleaded guilty. Hamme, Grove and Kimmel were each fined $20 and costs of $3.50, for giggling before the season and without a permit. Chronister was fined $35 for illegally catching bass and for catching frogs out of season with a bright light, and $3.50 costs, making a total of $100 for the four fishermen. The few fish which the men had in their possession were sent to the York Christian Home, and the gigs and lights will be sent to the department of fisheries at Harrisburg.

May Now Fish for Black Bass.

The bass season opened yesterday, Friday, July 1, and extends to December 30, both dates inclusive. No fish under 9 inches may be taken. Each fisherman is permitted to take 12 bass in a single day. Game fish may be taken only with rods and lines, two rods and lines, and one hand line, with not more than three hooks attached to each is allotted each individual. There is no seasonal limit on bass.

The frog season opens to-day, one day later than the bass season, beginning on Saturday, July 2, and ending on October 31. The daily limit is 25, and the seasonal limit is 50. Tadpoles, or "mullies," may only be taken in frog season, and but 25 may be taken in a single day, or had by a fisherman at one time.

The fish license is not required this summer, the law requiring each person to have a license costing $1.15 not becoming effective until the first of the year.

Touring Car on Fire.

While standing along the curb on Carlisle street in Hanover on Saturday evening, the touring car of L. Roy Winebrenner of this place came near being destroyed by fire, when a defective wire ignited the grease in the drip-pan. In an instant the motor was enveloped in flames. H. W. Stonesifer, manager of the Automotive Stores Corporation nearby, brought an extinguisher and put out the fire. Meanwhile a bystander phoned an alarm to Hanover Fire Company No. 1, and the firemen responded promptly. Their services, however, were not needed. Mr. Winebrenner made an attempt to pull the wire away from the grease and in so doing was painfully burned on his left hand.

Red Cross Answers Call.

The first call of the American Red Cross since the last drive for war relief purposes was recently issued for the Pueblo flood sufferers. The Adams County Red Cross has answered the call by sending to the Red Cross for these flood sufferers $40. Of this sum $22 came from the collection taken up for the purpose in the Lutheran Church at Fairfield and $18 from an Arendtsville friend and the remainder came from the Red Cross funds.

Col. Nicholson Honored.

At a meeting of the Valley Forge Park Commission Thursday, June 23, 1921, all the members present, Col. John P. Nicholson was unanimously elected President, as a recognition of his nineteen years' service as Commissioner and Vice President.

President Invited to Gettysburg.

President Harding will be invited to be the Memorial Day orator at Gettysburg next year and that it shall become an established custom for the chief executive of the country to spend his second May 30 in office at this place, is the aim of the American Legion, which will work through the Grand Army of the Republic to attain its end. The Civil War men still cling to their control of Memorial Day, and the Legion will corroborate but will aim to have more permanent speakers at Gettysburg. For years it has been the custom of an incoming president to spend his first Memorial Day at Arlington. It is felt that it would be fitting to have Gettysburg chosen for the second year. An invitation is soon to be sent to President Harding with this in view.

FOR DIRECTOR OF THE POOR
P. P. EISENHART
 of East Berlin Borough
 Subject to decision of Democratic Primaries.

Political Activity Times.

The time is coming when the candidates and their friends must get busy with nomination petitions for the primary.

The primary will be held on the third Tuesday of September, 20th of month.

On the primary ballot will go a question to be determined by the electors, namely whether or not a constitutional convention will be called to frame and submit a new constitution. The last one was adopted in 1874.

The nominating petitions can not be signed or circulated for delegate to the constitutional convention and associate judge before to-day July 2, and must be filed with the Secretary of the Commonwealth not later than on August 11.

Petitions for associate judge must contain 100 signatures.

Petitions for constitutional convention delegates must contain 200 signatures. There will be three delegates from the congressional district of Adams and York and the voter will only be able to vote for two delegates and the minority party in any district will get one of the three delegates.

The first day for signature to all petitions for county, borough, township and ward offices is July 14, and all petitions must be filed in the office of the county commissioners not later than August 23. This is the big municipal election primary when almost every office in borough, township and ward is filled. In Gettysburg borough, the offices to be filled include Burgess, Tax Collector, School Director, Town Council. Ten signatures are needed to petition for all these offices except inspector where five signatures are sufficient.

The county offices to be filled are two Associate Judges and one Director of the Poor and two Jury Commissioners.

AMONG THE NEWLYWEDS

Are Two Former Instructors at Gettysburg College.

Creager-Alden.—On last Saturday afternoon Prof. Paul S. Creager, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Creager, of Gettysburg, was united in marriage to Miss Orpha Lillian Alden, daughter of the late Charles and Edith Alden, of Shannon, Ill. Rev. C. R. Van Hook, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, of New Brunswick, N. J., performed the ceremony at the home of the bride's brother, John Alden, of Newark, N. J. Prof. Creager is a graduate of Gettysburg College of the class of 1913, and for some time was instructor in the Physics Department of the institution. He is now instructor in Electrical Engineering at Rutgers College, New Brunswick, N. J.

Reckard-Bird.—Otis H. Reckard, Jr., son of Otis H. Reckard, Sr., of York, and Miss Mary Rebecca Bird, daughter of Mrs. Annie Bird, of Madison, Wisconsin, were married at the home of the bride in Madison. Mr. Reckard graduated from Gettysburg College in the class of 1916, and was for some time an instructor in the mathematics department at College. During the war he was with the Red Cross, for a time at Carlisle Hospital and later at Camp Lee, Va. After leaving Gettysburg, he went to the University of Wisconsin to take graduate work and to assist in the department of mathematics. Mr. Reckard is now a professor at the University of Wisconsin at Madison and will reside there with his bride.

Kiper-Haverstick.—Miss Linda R. Haverstick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Haverstick, of New Oxford, and J. A. Kiper, of York, were married on Tuesday evening in York. The ceremony was performed by Rev. O. S. Hartman. Mrs. Kiper for sometime past has resided in York. They will make their home for the time being with the bridegroom's parents.

Garber-Junkins.—Wm. J. Garber, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Garber, of near Hampton, and Miss Mabel M. Junkins, daughter of Harry L. Junkins, of Latimore township, were married on June 23 by Rev. G. H. Eveler, of Dillsburg.

Ensslen-Wolf.—Miss Amy Wolf, formerly of Abbotstown, was united in marriage last Saturday to George J. Ensslen, of Philadelphia. They were married at the home of the groom in Philadelphia where they will make their future home.

Wright-Crapster.—Mr. and Mrs. John A. Cox, of Washington, have announced the recent marriage of Mrs. Cox's sister, Miss Nina Jones Crapster, to George Metcalf Wright, of Frankford, Philadelphia. Miss Crapster, formerly of Taneytown, lived in Gettysburg several years ago with her sister. As the Lohengrin wedding march was played by Miss Anna Galt, of Taneytown, the officiating clergyman, Rev. Pedro Rioseco, of Philadelphia, a former pastor of the bride, entered the parlor immediately followed by the groom and his best man, Mr. Crankshaw, of Frankford. The bride, gowned in moon-glow satin and old lace with a hat done in pink georgette and roses, carried a shower bouquet of valley lilies, roses and stephanotis, came in with her brother, Wm. Crapster, who gave her away. The impressive ring service of the Presbyterian Church was used. After luncheon Mr. and Mrs. Wright left for an extended tour to Quebec, Thousand Islands and the lakes. Mr. and Mrs. Wright will reside at Frankford, Pa.

Rebeck-Miller.—Miss Margaret J. Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Miller, of Philadelphia, and Walter E. Rebeck, of Shippensburg, were married on Tuesday in Philadelphia. Mr. Rebeck graduated from Gettysburg College in the spring of 1919. During the World War he served in France with the Seventy-ninth Division and had part of his hand torn off by a piece of German shrapnel.

Munchel-Eline.—At St. Mary's Catholic Church, York, on Thursday, was solemnized the wedding of Miss Corinne Eline, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Felix J. Eline, formerly of McSherrystown, and Anthony Munchel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Munchel, by Rev. George J. Breckel, rector, at a high nuptial mass.

Schaeffer-Ott.—Lloyd D. Schaeffer, of Westminster, and Miss Helen Leshler Ott, of Mercersburg, were recently married by Rev. Repass at the home of the bride. The bridegroom attended Gettysburg College and was a member of class of 1917. He was an aviator with the French Esquadron, with the destruction of four German planes to his credit, and received six medals in recognition of his services. He has many friends here, as also his bride who has been a frequent guest at college dances.

Miles of Trees Along Road.

During the last few weeks the State Highway Department has planted a large number of American elms and sugar maples along State Highway Route No. 123, between Gettysburg and Harrisburg. The planting of several miles of trees was under the direction of attaches of the State Forestry Department.

"It is our aim eventually," said Highway Commissioner Sadler, "to beautify the main highway routes in Pennsylvania through the intelligent planting of shade trees."

A tentative plan has been worked out with the Forestry Department whereby a comprehensive system of planting trees along State Highway Routes will be taken up. The Highway Commissioner will designate highway to be planted and the particular section involved.

The Commissioner of Forestry will make a survey of the planting site, recommending the species to be planted; and giving in detail the planting operation, such as distance, care of stock, size and depth of holes, setting of the trees, fertilizers, staking of the trees, planting crew, necessary tools, approximate time required and other details.

The State Foresters will direct operation and inspect the trees from time to time, giving instructions concerning the subsequent care and treatment.

In order to make a real success of this work it will be necessary to obtain the complete co-operation of the adjacent land owners, obtaining their permission to remove undesirable trees along the highways right-of-way which are four inches or over in diameter two feet above the ground. The co-operation of companies operating overhead service lines will also be necessary. The trees will be furnished by the Forestry Department as fast as they become available from the State Nursery.

Young Life Saver.

Billy Ehrhart, the seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Ehrhart, of Hanover, proved his mettle as a life-saver on Tuesday when he rescued his sister, Jane, a tot only three years old, who had fallen from the boat landing of the Ehrhart cottage into the Big Conecago Creek, at a point South of the iron bridge near Dicks' woods.

An older brother, Dan, was swimming under water and the two youngsters were standing on the boat landing watching for him to come to the surface. In her excitement Jane tumbled into the creek, which is about six feet in depth in front of the landing. The older boy was far out in the stream. Billy without a moment's hesitation jumped in after his sister and dragged her into shallow water. The little girl had gone under several times.

The Haggard Man

By MARIE BELDEN JAMES

(Copyright.)

Marshall Shane was old, but nobody would have guessed it. Age had not darkened his dark eyes nor silvered his dark hair nor bent his broad shoulders.

He had watched the world for seventy years, and he knew it so well that he was not afraid to love it.

Karl Kraft, the art critic was one of the many to whom Marshall Shane's word was law and light.

He walked into Shane's study one warm, late May afternoon.

"A strange thing, sir," he said, sitting down by the table and gazing out of the window at the fading sunlight; "a very strange thing."

Marshall Shane looked at him keenly.

"You're in trouble," he said.

"Well, not exactly," returned Kraft.

"I've been through a strange experience, but if it really was the way it seemed it was worth the price I paid for it."

"A large price?" inquired Shane.

"Rather—as the world considers things."

"That's good. Let's hear about it."

So Kraft let him hear.

"I went to the bank this morning to cash my check for that series of articles I did for Kaleidoscope. The teller gave me eight one-hundred-dollar bills—there were eight articles, you know—and I put them into my vest pocket and went out. I started to walk home, and I had gone some distance before I noticed that a man was following me."

"When I did discover it I looked around at him, and I saw that he was a haggard, weary-looking man."

"I didn't pay much attention to him, even though I was carrying eight hundred, for I didn't think it would be easy to hold up a man on Counter street in the middle of the morning."

"I turned around and faced him sharply, but it did not seem to abash him in the least."

"You are Kraft?" he said. It was more like a simple statement than a question, and I told him he was right.

"I have the impertinence," he said, "to ask you to look at a picture."

"My terms are very high and in advance," I answered, briefly enough, for I thought if he were trying to put up some game on me that would settle him.

"I have only five dollars," he said calmly. "But you're welcome to that here and now if you'll look at my picture."

"Where's your studio?" I asked him.

"He pointed to the Lefevre, and that decided me."

"The elevator took us up—up—higher than'd ever been before, to the very top floor, and when we got out the room he conducted me to was the smallest and poorest in the building."

"There wasn't much of anything in it—a couch, some canvases and paintboxes, and on an easel a picture covered with a cloth."

"About six feet in front of the easel an imitation Persian rug was spread on the floor, and to this he escorted me. He wanted me to sit on it."

"I haven't a chair," he said; "and you get just the right light on the picture from here. I've studied for days the placing of the rug, waiting for the time when you would come to see my picture."

Then he went softly over to the picture and took the cloth off it. He must have stepped back out of my sight then, for I remember no more of him."

"But the picture?"

"Mr. Shane, that was a picture—a wonderful one."

"The second my eyes fell on it it snatched my mind from everything else by its wonderful brightness—great masses of reds—scarlets and crimson and garnets so dazzling and blinding that it was a little time before I saw the face in the center of them. But when I did come to that clear, white face, everything softened and blurred."

"When, half-unconsciously, I wandered back to that mass of reds there were softer and clearer and I saw what they were—a great bed of heavy, nodding poppies drooping in a sleepy breeze that rocked them, and among them a delicate-faced girl with great, dark eyes gently falling asleep. As I watched, her eyelids seemed to droop more and more, her eyes to grow more and more dreamy."

"I woke up peacefully and gazed around me dreamily, as I have waked and gazed a hundred times in my hammock at Heathrade on one of our long, rapturous July days."

"But when my eyes reached the easel it was like a cold shock of water in the face. The picture was gone."

"The canvas had been cut—hacked, the ragged edges seemed to say—from the frame. An ugly hole like a gaping wound confronted me."

"I stood up suddenly."

"I felt cramped and uncomfortable, as though I had slept for a long time, and the sunlight on the floor looked more like that of the afternoon than of the morning. Unconsciously I put up my hand for my watch to see the time."

"But no watch was there. Then, quite consciously, I felt for my eight one-hundred-dollar notes. They also had left me."

"You can imagine that I pulled myself together then. It's bad enough to lose eight-hundred dollars, but to lose eight hundred dollars and have to walk home as well is too much. I turned down Rand street and entered Doctor Quigley's office."

"I asked Quigley to look me over and tell me, if he could, how I had been drugged so quickly and so quietly."

"Do you want to see whether I know my profession, or what?" he asked. "There isn't the slightest symptom about you to indicate that you have been near any drug for years."

"He was rather offended, and I had to apologize quite humbly before I dared even to ask him to lend me car fare. When I got it I came straight up here. There's something very queer about the affair all around, Mr. Shane, and if anybody can explain it you can."

All through this story the old man's keen eyes had been watching his friend's face.

"You didn't even find out the name of the—the haggard man?" he asked.

"Yes, I did find that out—at the very last," said Kraft. "I asked the elevator man. Ramon, his name is, Royal Ramon."

"Ah!" Marshall Shane's eyes brightened. "That accounts for it. I didn't think there was but one man in the world who could—"

"Do you know him, then?" interrupted Kraft.

"No," said Marshall Shane, "but I knew his father, Royal Ramon, Sr. He was a moderately successful painter—in England. One day, in a moment of delicious greatness, he painted a picture of a man flinging himself off London bridge in a dense gray fog. When he had finished it, I suppose he was foolish enough to look at it until it thrilled him, for instead of selling it he put it on exhibition in his studio."

"His friends all came to see it, and they looked and looked and went away with queer, scared faces, and before the end of the week three of them—men who had been brave enough through every kind of trouble—had thrown themselves off London bridge."

"A great fuss was made about it and it ruined Ramon utterly as an artist, and the government even went so far as to forbid him exhibiting his picture. But they couldn't prevent him from looking at it himself, and one day when all London was hidden in a dense gray fog he stole away from his home, leaving his wife and his little boy, went up to London bridge and slipped off."

"Mrs. Ramon and the boy left England shortly afterward. I kept track of them for a while—the mother died nine or ten years ago. But I lost the boy, and now he turns up a haggard man, and a greater genius even than his father. And I don't think that you'll ever again see your watch or your eight hundred dollars."

"Do you really mean," demanded Kraft, "that I believe that any man could paint a picture that would put one to sleep like an opiate?"

"I do," said Marshall Shane, "but the police never would. If you don't wish to have your sanity doubted, I advise you not to try them."

"You really believe?" repeated Kraft. "It seems so improbable—such a strange thing."

"I've known stranger things than that," said Marshall Shane.

African and Asiatic Elephants.

Many persons have, no doubt, wondered why the African elephant, though quite as intelligent as the Indian or Asiatic animal, is less often found with circuses and at zoological parks. The reason is one which may be easily explained: The African elephant, it has been found, is less docile in captivity than the Asiatic elephant; his surroundings seem to have more effect upon his disposition. Then, too, his tastes are different from those of his cousin, the Asiatic elephant. Used to the jungles, where he roamed at will, crossing the forests and fording the rivers, he is not at all content with his enforced captivity. Although all this is generally true of the African elephant, yet "Jumbo," long the great pet of Barnum and Bailey's circus, was a full-grown African elephant, which came from the wildest part of Africa. Yet "Jumbo" never caused any trouble to his attendants, and never was there a more affectionate elephant.

Island of Mystery.

Mindoro, in the Philippine group, is something of a mystery. Other islands are rather thickly populated, but Mindoro is shrouded in uncertainty. There is a fringe of population around the shoreline, but the interior of the big island is practically unknown and unexplored. It is claimed that but one white man, Dean Worcester, ever has crossed the interior of Mindoro.

Why the island has remained thus for nearly three hundred years is something of a mystery. It is said that there is gold in abundance on this island, and where there is gold there usually can be found white men willing to go after it, whether in frozen waste or tropic heat, but Mindoro's secrets remain safely hidden.—From "A Tenderfoot in the Tropics," by Mack P. Cretcher.

Bananas Should Be More Plentiful.
 Big development has taken place in the banana industry in Kingston, Jamaica, due to the fact that there was no hurricane last year. The different trading companies are making arrangements to put on more ships and an attempt is being made to get the growers to co-operate with the district association, under the guidance of a large central association, to get better prices from the United States purchasing companies.

A GETTYSBURG INTERVIEW.

Miss Dillman Tells Her Experience.
The following brief account of an interview with a Gettysburg woman five years ago, and its sequel, will be read with keen interest by every citizen.

Miss Mary Dillman, 263 S. Washington St., Gettysburg, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills are, in my opinion, a very fine remedy for weak kidneys. My back was very weak and hurt me all the time. Backache bore down on me as if I had a great weight on my back. My kidneys were too frequent in action and when I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills I purchased some at the People's Drug Store. This remedy gave me fine relief and has never since failed to benefit me when it was necessary to use them." The above statement was given February 15, 1916, and on April 11, 1921, Miss Dillman said: "Nothing could ever make me go back on Doan's Kidney Pills. This very fine kidney medicine drove all symptoms of kidney trouble from me. Every once in a while I take a few of Doan's to be sure my kidneys are still in good shape."

Church Adopts Summer Schedule.

At a congregational meeting last Sunday the members of Trinity Reformed Church voted to change the hour of their regular morning service from ten thirty to eight thirty during the months of July and August.

PREVENT FOREST FIRES—IT PAYS.

BEER GETS THE KNOCK-OUT.

In the House—Now What Will the Senate Do?

The House on Monday night by a vote of 250 to 93 passed the Willis-Campbell Anti-beer Bill.

The anti-beer bill prevents physicians from prescribing beer for their patients. Under the opinion handed down by former Attorney-General Palmer physicians would have been allowed to prescribe beer in practically unlimited quantities. The office of the Internal Revenue Commissioner has had ready for some time regulations under which this beer could have been prescribed, and there has been a frantic drive by the prohibition forces to pass the Willis-Campbell bill before these regulations were issued. "Dry" insisted that if the regulations were put into effect the country would be flooded with beer.

In addition to the ban on beer under the bill a physician can prescribe only one pint of alcoholic liquor every ten days for internal use.

The beer situation has been troublesome since the start of the Constitutional amendment. Physicians were resenting the position it placed them in and the American Medical Society recently passed a resolution in effect that members of the medical profession should remember that they are physicians, not bartenders. The resolution being:

"Whereas, reproach has been brought on the medical profession by some members who have misused the law which permits the prescribing of alcohol.

Be it resolved that the American Medical Association announces its disapproval of a small minority of the profession being purveyors of alcoholic beverages."

While the anti-beer bill was before the House a number of physicians and druggists, desiring to prevent their profession from being debauched with beer selling sent their protests to Congress, one protest numerous signed declared to place on record their conviction that the manufacture and sale of beer and other malt liquors for medicinal purposes should not be permitted. Malt liquors never have been listed in the United States as official medicinal liquors. They serve no medicinal purpose that can not be satisfactorily met in other ways, and that without the danger of cultivating the beverage use of an alcoholic liquor.

As the fight went on over beer a number of opinions developed. As one physician declared beer was not a food. "It possesses nothing that can enter into the formation of blood, brain, bone or muscle. It contains alcohol, and was a poison in proportion to the percentage of alcohol in it."

"The beer drinker develops Bright's disease, fatty degeneration of the liver and heart, enlargement of the stomach, edema or dropsy of the lungs, devaluation of the blood, and with it all, a ruined nervous system. All medical testimony asserts to the fact that the beer user's resisting force is so much reduced that in every 20 cases of pneumonia among these men usually die in a very few days after the onset of the attack. All surgeons affirm that it is doubtful for any of these subjects receiving very slight wounds to recover. They succumb either to shock or blood poison. It matters not what the disease they contract their power of resistance is so nearly nil that the prognosis is always extremely unfavorable." So comes the fact these days and beer is knocked out.

20 Nearby Forest Fires This Year.

District Forester Williams, of Caledonia, has reported to the Pennsylvania Department of Forestry that 20 forest fires occurred in his district this spring. He estimates the area burned over to be 663 acres. About 363 acres were state-owned land and the remainder was private land.

According to Forester Williams it cost the State $597.21 to put out these fires, and more than 2,000 hours were spent in fighting the fires. The average fire burned over about 48 acres.

Camp Rothrock, the permanent camping ground of the Chester County Boy Scouts, will be opened July 18 at Pine Grove Furnace. The camp is located in a clearing of about two acres at Laurel Lake. A mess hall has been built, and a water line is being run into the camp from a nearby mountain stream.

Forester Williams will supply willow rods by the Department of Forestry to the Camp Craft Shop at Mt. Alto Sanatorium. The rods will be used in the making of baskets and furniture by the patients.

Let's Have a Safe and Sane Fourth.

The State Department of Health, in anticipation of Fourth of July accidents, has restocked its antitoxin stations through the State.

Torn, bruised wounds, particularly when deep and contaminated by street or stable dirt, and all wounds caused by fireworks, are dangerous.

First aid treatment of these wounds should be in the form of washing with water which has been boiled, and applying over the wound a clean boiled fabric, such as linen, wet and kept wet in this boiled water until the doctor comes.

The antitoxin for such cases should be administered at once—the sooner, the better. The dose is fifteen hundred units. It will prevent lockjaw.

In bad wounds which show no tendency to heal in a week, the dose should be repeated. If they still show no sign of healing at the end of the second week, the dose should be repeated.

Tetanus antitoxin stations in Adams county are: New Oxford, Ed. T. Auker's drug store; Gettysburg, C. W. Beales' drug store.

NEW MERRY WIDOW HAT FROM YANK BRAINS.

Peggy Hoyt, American girl, has just scored one great victory to face a bigger battle. In straight open competition she defeated the leaders of her art from three countries, France, England, and America, but her real job is ahead. She is expected by Henry W. Savage, the New York theatrical producer to produce a hat which will outlive the "Merry Widow" sailor of fourteen years ago. Savage is staging a revival of the famous Merry Widow operetta, and after a duel between millinery designers, selected Miss Hoyt for the task of creating a hat which, like its prototype, led millinery styles for seven years.

"Oh Boy! Ain't this the life!!"

I LIKE my job.
BUT DAYS do come.
WHEN SKIES are blue.
AND BREEZES stir.
THE PAPERS on my desk
AND THEN I think
WHAT I would do.
IF I were boss.
I'D OPEN shop.
AT TWELVE o'clock.
AND CLOSE at one.
WITH ONE hour off.
FOR LUNCH, and I
WOULD GET old Sam.
TO RUN me out.
IN HIS big six.
AND DROP me off.
UNDER A greenwood tree.
BESIDE A babbling brook.
AND THERE I'd lie.

AND EVERY once.
IN A while.
ROLL OVER.
OR MAYBE sit and think.
BUT MOST likely.
JUST SIT.
AND EVERY once.
IN A while I'd light.
ONE OF my Chesterfields.
AND OH Boy.
I GUESS that wouldn't

F. X. Colgan Re-elected.

During the past week occurred the balloting for the Secretary-Treasurer of Cigar-Makers' Union No. 316, of McSherrystown, and all the cigar-makers of all the different factories belonging to Union formed the membership to determine the election. The result was a victory for the present popular incumbent, F. X. Colgan. The vote stood 286 for Mr. Colgan and 130 for I. W. Krepps. Mr. Colgan has held this office for the past sixteen and one-half years.

Eight Pictures on a Film.

As many as eight photographs may be taken on the same film by the aid of a special camera-back invented recently. When the film is loaded there are two masks in front of it, each of which may be adjusted so that certain portions of the film were exposed. The photograph is then taken in the ordinary way, but that part of the film which was covered by the mask remains unexposed, and another photograph may be taken, without spoiling the one already taken. One, two, four or eight photographs may thus be taken on the same film.

NOTHING UNREAL ABOUT THIS

Only an Idealist Would Have Expected Anything Else From the Modern Gilded Youth.

Editor George Horace Lorimer was talking in a Philadelphia club about realism.

"I've got no time for realists," he said, "because they paint human nature worse than it is. Here's a typical realist story for you:

"A pretty girl was engaged to two young men simultaneously, and one evening the parlor maid came to her and said in a scared voice:

"Oh, Miss Bessie, them two gents what you're engaged to has called together, and somehow they've found out about both engagements."

"The pretty girl threw her cigarette into the fire pettishly.

"What the dickens shall I do?" she exclaimed.

"But the parlor maid smiled joyfully.

"I'll tell you what to do, Miss Bessie," she said. "I'll go downstairs and say you're crying in your room because your pop has lost all his money. Then you can be engaged for keeps to the gent what stays."

"That seems a good plan," said the pretty girl, and she lit another cigarette and waited.

"The maid was gone about three minutes. Then she returned with a frightened look on her white face.

"Miss Bessie, both on 'em has gone," she said."

A Preacher Fisherman.

He couldn't get rich preaching, so he gave it up and went fishing. After a season's work with a salmon fishing crew he had enough money to buy tickets to Norway for his wife, their four children and himself. Now Rev. H. B. Nye, former pastor of the Norwegian Baptist church of Tacoma, Wash., is on his way to Norway where he says preaching is more lucrative than in America.

His desire for money was due entirely to his longing to return to Norway. When his earnings as a fisherman were sufficient to buy the tickets he was willing to quit fishing. He will go to Harstad, Norway, where he will receive as pastor about $1,500 a year with house and fuel. He received only $800 from his little church in Tacoma.

GOATS' MILK FINDING FAVOR

Prejudice Against This Cheap and Nutritious Food Seems in Fair Way to Disappear.

Goats, it must be admitted, have never been taken seriously by public opinion in the United States, and the news that the owner of the largest herd in the American Northwest is preparing to establish an extensive dairy for the sale of goats' milk will probably seem to many rather humorous. As a matter of fact, however, it appears that a promising beginning is already made, and that the city of Seattle, conveniently near the great herd of goats on Cypress island, in the Puget Sound archipelago, already consumes about a thousand quarts of goats' milk a day. Publicity will perhaps be necessary to overcome the American habit of regarding the goat humorously, and it may take time and patience to prove widely the statement of the owner of the herd that goats' milk is quite as good, if not actually better, than cows' milk. Five cents a day, says he, will pay the cost of keeping a goat whose average milk production is two or three quarts; and two quarts of milk for 5 cents would make a considerable difference in the food expense of a family. The goat dairy may be more important than it seems; and ten years from now such dairies may be commonplace.
